

I wonder when we'll stop selling our souls. Leave the damn xm radio alone. For a change there's something out there you pay for and you don't have to listen to commercials. I sit and watch tv and while there's an old movie on that I've seen at least 4 times I have to get 15 commercials thrown at me with 5 minutes of movie time...I'm very close to forgetting I even have a tv and relieve myself of the frustration, of having crap thrown at me that is ridiculous. Let the radio companies get their act together. I have one radio station up here that I like and can't get it and it's only 28 miles away from Rhinelander. How come that is???? Spend the money where it means something, upgrades etc. We've become such crybabies over money that we want a triple dip ice cream instead of a double dip these days. I probably will not be heard as that is the case most of the time....BUT I HAVE SPOKEN FOR MANY !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!